Welcome to St. Julie

You will notice a new addition to our parish church with the arrival of a statue of St. Julie Billiard, on the small pedestal near the Holy Family statue. It is a fitting place for St. Julie, foundress of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, since the SNDs have been a part of the extended family of Holy Cross since 1856 when they began teaching at Holy Cross School. The school closed in 1961 but many generations of sisters and students of St. Joseph Academy frequented Holy Cross Church. Though the High School closed and the property was sold to Franklin University, many former students continued as parishioners; and in 2002, Sr. Pat arrived as Pastoral Associate and together, we continue to proclaim, as St. Julie did in her time, “How Good is the Good God!”

The Spirituality of Scripture

On Tuesday, July 21, 2009, at 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, the Martin de Porres Center, 2330 Airport Drive, Columbus, will host “The Spirituality of Scripture” facilitated by Karen Gagel, MA in Theology from the Pontifical College Josephinum. This presentation will look at familiar stories, their messages and how they encourage our spiritual growth. Please call 416-1910 to register.

St. Matthew Parish Festival

St. Matthew Parish is holding their Summer Festival on July 23, 24 and 25, 6:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight. Games, Rides, Food, Kiddie Land! Live Bands and Food Specials each night. Cash Prize Raffle. THE WORD

Most newspapers and even some magazines have personal ads with their ISO (“in search of...”) pleas. Some can be quite poignant: “Young man in search of companionship...” “Young woman looking for someone to share thoughts and dinner and hiking...” People turn to a newspaper column to help resolve their loneliness and desire for intimacy, hoping to find someone who will care and make their lives more meaningful. It is not only individuals who are searching for something more. Sometimes it can be a community, a country, even most of the world.

Jesus has taken His apostles off to a quiet place so they can “rest a while” (Mark 6:31). But even “a deserted place” provides no getaway from the needs of the people who search them out. Jesus’ response to them gives us an insight into what He was like. The Gospel tells us “his heart was moved with pity for them” (6:34). The word in Greek for “moved with pity” has its roots in the word for “womb” or “loins,” the innermost part of a person, where life begins.

What evokes this response is their being “like sheep without a shepherd” (6:34). Sheep without a shepherd would be likely to wander off and get lost, vulnerable to being picked off by wolves, or just starve to death. The kings of Israel and Judah and the religious leaders were called to shepherd God’s people. They were to govern, guide, and guard them. Often, they did a poor job. Today, we hear the Lord castigate these shepherds through the words of the prophet Jeremiah. God promises to appoint new shepherds.

The need for good shepherds continues in our day, for men and women who will care for the ones most vulnerable in our society. This is not just a matter for those in obvious positions of power, whether church or state, but for all those who have the capacity to reach out to any in physical need, to any searching for deeper meaning, to those looking for signs of the presence of God.
