THE WORD

During this annual week of praying for Christian Unity, it may be either consoling or disheartening to realize that from the beginning there were divisions in the Church. In Paul's day, the bickering arose in Corinth over rival loyalties: "I belong to Paul... to Peter... to Apollos... to Christ." Paul tries to put an end to this from the start, asking the various factions, "Is Christ divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptized in the name of Paul?" (1 Corinthians 1:13).

Today's readings remind us that the darkness of division, whether among nations, churches, or families, is not part of the kingdom of heaven. Diversity, yes; division, no. The light that Christ came and continues to bring is the light that allows us to look into the face of our brother and sister and see the face of God.

Jesus came into Galilee preaching the good news of the coming of God's rule, proclaiming that God's loving presence was here even now: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" (Matthew 4:17). There is an urgency here, a call to repent, change, seek, and accept God's rule in our lives. This call is as urgent for us today as it was then. As nations continue to build up arsenals of nuclear weapons, there is an unparalleled possibility of devastation on a global level.

Jesus continues to seek others to join him in preaching this gospel message. A divided community is a counter-sign, not serving to bring about the kingdom. The death of Christ was to heal such divisions. When we settle for division, we "empty the cross of Christ of its meaning."

Martin Painting Company will also repair the damaged wainscoting below this mural and near the side entrance door on the north side of the church. This project is expected to be completed by Sunday, January 30th. We appreciate your patience during this time especially during daily Mass since sections of the pews in the church will be blocked off near the high-lift equipment.
